

The rules for the after-school care program

The internal rules for the after-school care program

A decision on whether to accept a participant into the after-school care program consisting of regular instructive, educational and hobby activities is made on the basis of a written registration. Part of the registration for participation in these regular instructive, educational, and hobby activities includes written notification from the participant's legal guardians as to the extent of the participant's attendance and the manner in which the participant will leave the after-school care.

The criteria for accepting a pupil into the after-school care program:

- a) a pupil who is attending a preparatory class at the school,
- b) a pupil who is in year one at the school,
- c) a pupil who is in year two at the school,
- d) a pupil who is in year three at the school,
- e) pupils who are in years four and five at the school are only accepted, if the after-school care program has available capacity,
- f) pupils, whose sibling(s) from the preparatory class or years one to three at the school have already been accepted into the after-school care program, take precedence.

The after-school program from [REDACTED] to [REDACTED].

The after-school care program provides informative, educational activities outside of lessons, especially in the form of relaxation, recreational and hobby activities, and it enables pupils to prepare for lessons. Sufficient time is devoted to the children's spontaneous activities. It enables pupils to participate in further hobby activities organised by the school.

The same hygiene measures apply to the after-school care program as to the entire primary school.
